

Mike Filsaime has taken the Internet marketing world by storm. He's an author, software developer, renowned speaker, personal coach, business consultant, and most of all... an intensive marketer.

He was the General Manager of one of the nations largest Auto Dealers. 14 years in the auto business along with his education at New York Institute of Technology in Computer Science and Business Administration has allowed him to understand Marketing, Advertising, Sales, Customer Service, and long term Business Principles and how to use the Internet to leverage these principals to incredible successes.

He's led teams of over 50 people, trained some of the highest paid sales people in the auto industry today And has a way of teaching his concepts to people in a way that "sticks."

Many of his protégé's have gone on to have incredible success in a very short amount of time after working with him. He believes in continued learning and makes every attempt to stay on the cutting edge by purchasing courses and systems and studying from every successful person that is blazing the trail in their field.

His home base is in Long Island, NY and envisions growing a $100 Million Company in the years to come and is hoping to bring people along with him as he mentors people on their journey to success.

Here are Mike's products, services and resources:
