GenoPro

GenoPro is intuitively easy to learn, simple to use, yet capable to handle the most complex genealogy tree. GenoPro is for visualizing, editing and printing large genealogy trees. GenoPro allows you to distribute your genealogy tree on the Internet and supports scanned photos for everyone.

Kith and Kin Pro

Kith and Kin Pro's graphical interface and powerful data management tools make it ideal for large or small family trees. Each family tree is stored in a relational database with a capacity of over 2,000 million records, and you can have as many databases as you like.

RootsView

RootsView is a GEDCOM file viewer and a Web page generator that lets you view your genealogy data and share it with others. RootsView transforms your geneology data into a hyperlinked document with graphics and personal photos ready to publish on the Internet or in a form easy to share with your family.

Tree Draw

Tree Draw is a graphics editor for creating high-quality genealogical drop-line charts. Import descendant and ancestral trees from Kith and Kin files or PAF GEDCOM files created by other genealogy programs. TreeDraw converts these trees into easily edited chart elements which can then be re-formatted and re-arranged before storing and printing. By importing a combination of descendant and ancestral trees from one or more tree files, it is possible to build complex charts which can extend in any direction.
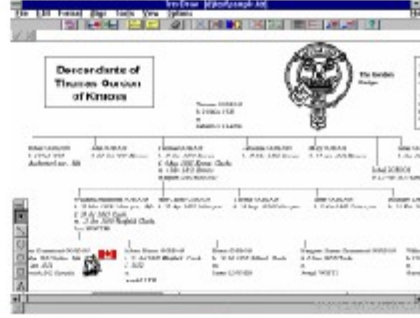

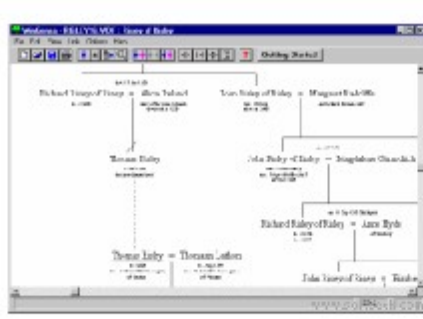

WinGenea

WinGenea allows you to store, display, and print family trees containing up to 32,000 individuals. WinGenea displays these individuals' relationships as a standard dropline chart, enabling you to draw three different versions of the chart for each data file and easily switch between them.

Wintree

Wintree creates and prints family tree charts from GEDCOM data.The program produces two "full" chart styles (box charts and larger charts of 1,000 or more families) showing all blood relatives. It also offers single-page eight generation "birth brief" charts, and "selective ancestor" charts that trace descent in drop line format, 13 generations per page.
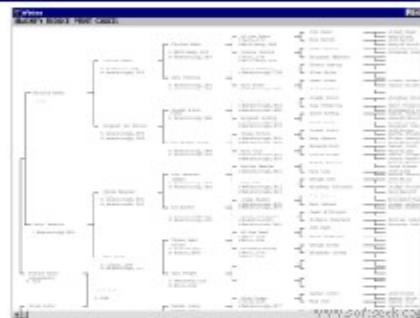

Personal Ancestral File 4.0

Personal Ancestral File 4.0 is a new Windows® based version of one of the most widely-used genealogical management programs for home computers. PAF 4.0 helps users organize their family history records: It can produce, in automated or manual form, records for personal family histories or charts and logs to help users in their search for missing ancestors.

Cumberland Family Tree

Cumberland Family Tree is a powerful second generation genealogy program - many features, multi-lingual, easy-to-use! Automatically links names as they are added to the database. Include 250 events per person, multiple marriages, scanned photos and documents, sources, stories and more... Print 31 different reports. Even create your very own indexed family history book!

Family Matters

Family Matters does pictures, and supports a many-to-many relationship between persons and pictures. For you the user, this means that persons can be linked to as many pictures as you like, and that each picture can be linked to as many persons as you like. (Yes, unlimited is the right word here.) There is a corresponding Picture Report, and you'll have lots of control of the report presentation and picture size.
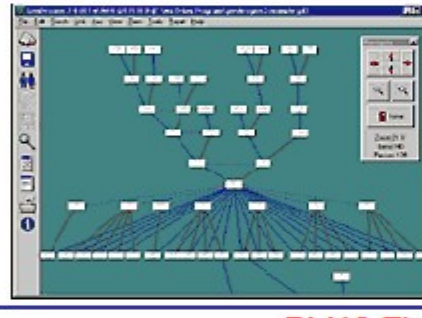

Family Origins

Family Origins is a genealogy application which allows you to simultaneously open up to nine databases. You can easily track multiple relationships, such as adoptions and foster parents, and use the integrated backup and restore functions to safeguard your data.
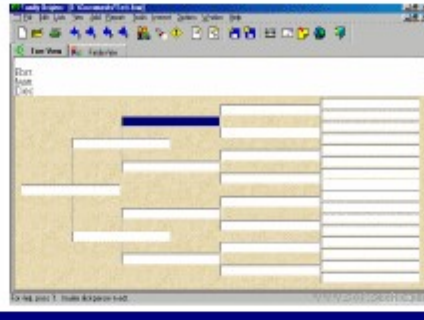

GenDesigner

GenDesigner is an easy-to-use application for creating, editing, and distributing family trees. You may include additional text and pictures for each person as well as distribute your genealogical tree on the Internet. A family tree example comes with the application.
